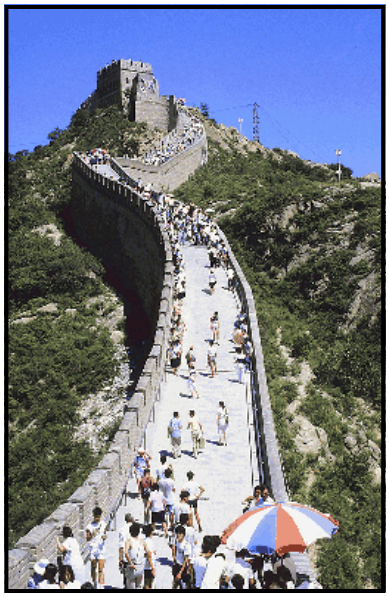
The Great Wall of China


The Great Wall of China stretches four thousand miles across northern China. While the earliest sections were built in the seventh century B.C., the areas visited today were mostly constructed in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries A.D.